

Disruptive Leadership Inside Out

Senior leaders today face the challenge of transforming companies to the digital economy and new ways of working. Before they start making changes within the company, however, they have to start making changes within themselves.

The program combines self-development with the development of the company, through new knowledge and trends from the worlds of business, technology and psychology.

FOR WHOM:

TOP MANAGEMENT

// Thanks to the program, I was able to technologically advance my entire team, thus improving our communication and making our work easier. But what I appreciate most about the Disruptive Leadership program is that it is not just about technology, a change in attitude and a new mindset, but more importantly, a focus on people.
