

Disruptive Leadership Inside Out

Date:

Spring 2022

For:

TOP management

Program length:

8 months

Number of participants:

15

Today, senior leaders face the challenge of transforming companies into a digital economy and new ways of working. But before they start making changes within the company, they have to start making changes with themselves. The program combines self-development with the development of the company, through new knowledge and trends from the world of business, technology and psychology.

“

With their approach, a lot of useful information and their knowledge, all 3 program leaders were able to excite me for new technologies and new approaches to presenting our business vision. Thanks to the program, I was able to technologically move my whole team, improving our communication and facilitating our work. I appreciate the Disruptive Leadership program not only on technology, changing attitudes and new thinking, but above all about focusing on the person.
